SHARING A WILD HABITAT RESPECTFULLY

There's nothing quite like getting outdoors and having a chance to appreciate the untouched beauty of nature! While we're out exploring it's important to remember that animals are in their home and we are the visitors. We can be considerate and environmentally friendly by following certain steps while enjoying the outdoors.

dispose of waste properly

A popular phrase from outdoor enthusiasts is "pack it in, pack it out". Anyone who uses recreational areas has a responsibility to clean up before leaving (and while staying there). Inspect your campsite and rest areas for trash or traces of food. Plan meals to avoid creating messy, smelly garbage and don't count on a fire to dispose of all of your trash—even small leftover pieces can attract wildlife. Make sure to dispose of dirty dish water properly to avoid harming the area with pollutants and attracting animals.

leave areas as you found them

Do not dig trenches for tents or build lean-tos, tables, chairs or other equipment. If you clear an area of rocks, twigs, etc. to make space, make sure to replace them before leaving. To avoid spreading problematic organisms and species, brush mud and plant debris off of hiking shoes and clothing before leaving an area.

respect wildlife

Do not disturb wildlife or plants just to have a better look. Always observe from a distance so they are not scared or forced to flee. Larger groups often cause more damage to the environment so keep your group small. Sudden movements and loud noises are stressful to animals. Considerate campers give animals space, store food securely, clean up trash and keep items packed away safely. If you see wildlife while driving, do not pull over and get out of the vehicle to take pictures. Safely slow down but continue on and observe from a distance. Leave photography up to the professionals.

protecting our waters

PREVENT AQUATIC INVASIVE SPECIES

There's something special about enjoying a hot summer day on the lake! We are lucky to have so many amazing swim spots in Manitoba; however, there is a threat to our waters. Some Manitoba lakes have already faced the consequences of aquatic invasive species (AIS), which makes it even more important to protect the rest of our lakes from being damaged. We can all do our part and learn about AIS and what we can do to prevent the spread.

what are invasive species?

An invasive species is an organism (animals, plants, parasites, viruses, etc.) not native to a region and that when introduced, either intentionally or accidentally, may out-compete native species for available resources such as food and space. Aquatic invasive species (AIS) can either live in freshwater or marine environments. The majority of the species of concern to Manitoba waters are zebra mussels, spiny waterflea, rusty crayfish, quagga mussels, and xenocarps. They are all freshwater species.

why are they an issue?

Different invasive species affect the environment differently. Generally, they can reproduce quickly and impact fish populations.

Zebra mussels specifically can damage watercrafts and water intake systems, litter shorelines, and interfere with swimming. Once a body of water becomes infected with an invasive species, it is costly and extremely hard to eradicate the species and fix the damage completely.

how you can help stop AIS

We play an important role in protecting Manitoba's water bodies and aquatic resources from AIS. You can help stop invasive species by learning more and following the Manitoba government's AIS regulations.

To prevent the spread of aquatic invasive species, water-users must take certain steps before moving water-related equipment from one water body to another. For a full list of steps and to learn more, visit gov.mb.ca/stopais.

s'mores campfire cones

A NEW TAKE ON A CLASSIC

One of the first foods that comes to mind when thinking about cooking over a campfire is s'mores! It's a classic for a reason, but if you want to try a fun twist on the traditional s'more, you can try these waffle cone alternatives!

serving size: 1

You can customize your cone and choose any of the following ingredients, or be creative and add your own favourites to the list!

ingredients

- 1 waffle cone
- 1/4 cup of mini marshmallows
- 1/4 cup chocolate chips or chunks
- 1/4 cup of a banana (sliced)
- 1/4 cup of strawberries (sliced)
- 1/4 cup of raspberries
- 1/4 cup of mini Rolos
- 1/4 cup of mini Reese's Peanut Butter Cups
- Chocolate or caramel sauce to drizzle

instructions

1. Place a few mini marshmallows in the bottom of the waffle cone. This is important because it will prevent the melted chocolate from coming through the bottom of the cone.
2. Stuff the cone very full and high with the ingredients of your choice.
3. Wrap completely with tin foil.
4. Place on the grill or on a rack over the campfire for 3-5 minutes.
5. Carefully remove from the grill or campfire, unwrap, and enjoy!
